ICC A117.1 2009 Accessible And Usable Buildings And Facilities (International Code Council Series)

Synopsis

Accommodating people with disabilities is not only an important factor when designing buildings - it's the law. As a result, it is imperative that you have a solid grasp of the specifications of the INTERNATIONAL CODES COUNCIL'S A117.1 2009 ACCESSIBLE AND USABLE BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES standard, which is designed to make sites, facilities, buildings, and elements accessible to and usable by people with such physical disabilities as the inability to walk, reliance on walking aids, visual and hearing impairments, reaching and manipulation disabilities, lack of stamina, and extremes of physical size. This updated edition includes a new chapter on recreational facilities, a new section addressing technical requirements for variable message signs commonly used in transportation facilities, and a number of other clarifications, revisions, and additions that enhance the solid provisions set forth by its predecessors. ## Customer Reviews

If you have any code issues this book is indispensable. All the information is already on line somewhere. Getting to it is another matter. If you're serious about handicap issues - get the book - read the book - stay informed. This is an excellent addition to my "new project" library.

Just an essential reference for architects. No way to spice this up here. Look if you're battling insomnia, this works!

This is exactly what you need if you are involved in designing accessible architecture.

Great reference for required ADA guidelines.

Exactly what I was looking for what great reading lol

Helpful

Covers most of the needed information needed to meet the construction needs for accessibility.
